Description: The teacher candidate will learn and practice the principles of teaching used by successful educators that have been identified in the Danielson Framework for Teaching. These principles include lesson planning, the development of a supportive classroom culture, and the use of formative/summative assessment, evidence-based teaching methods, classroom management, and instructional technology to engage students in learning.

Office Hours: 9:00-10:00 AM and 2:30-3:30 PM Tues/Thurs. Fri 1:00-2:00. Other times by appointment[3]

Class Time & Place: Section 9: Tuesdays and Thursdays 12:45-02:15 AM HIN 385 (and zoom)

Course Introduction and Invitation:
"We focus too much on teaching in the church." I was a bit aghast. Here was an educational expert talking about our teaching in the church--which I think needs great improvement--and he was saying we needed to talk about it less?!

"Instead, we need to talk more about learning. We need to focus people on their responsibility to learn, and how to use their agency. We need to recognize that we are not 'teachers' but 'learning engineers.' We don't build knowledge, we build experiences that bring knowledge. We are designers of learning experiences that students must choose to engage in."

Here's a similar quote: "A skilled teacher doesn't think, 'What shall I do in class today?' but asks, 'What will my students do in class today?' not, 'What will I teach today?' but rather, 'How will I help my students discover what they need to know?' [Teaching the Gospel: A Handbook for CES Teachers and Leaders (1994), 13]. The skilled teacher does not want students who leave the class talking about how magnificent and unusual the teacher is. This teacher wants students who leave talking about how magnificent the [subject] is!"[4]

I have prayed for angels and have not received them. But I wonder if there are other gifts--like teaching with such power that "they could not disbelieve" that are even more important right now. Maybe this class will teach you to think like a teacher--like the angels do. This is holy stuff. I'm excited to have you.

[1] I'm a terrible texter. I'm mediocre at answering phones, but I do try. I'm an excellent emailer. Best of all is the zoom channel, which I'll show in class.
[2] I detest vacuum salespeople. Google voice will screen you; just listen and answer and it'll go through. :)
[3] I am very flexible at finding times to work with you if you reach out. While I'm off campus Mon/Wed, I can still chat by phone!

KUDOS (Know, Understand, Do)

What will you be able to do by the end? All of this stuff. Here it is in my own language, however:

Know:

- The importance of lesson design and planning.
- Where to find (and how to find) high quality resources for lesson design and planning.
- Their own capacity to grow as a teacher, and how to do it.

Understand:

- The process of becoming a great teacher.
- The importance of agency in great teaching and learning.
- How to effectively utilize data to raise student achievement.
- The importance of collaboration, research-based practice, and high-quality strategies.

Do:

- Deliver high-quality, high-impact lessons and engage in reflection.
- Craft thoughtful, high-quality lesson plans that lead to student achievement.
- Use the principles of highly effective teaching to bless and lift others.

Common Assessments:

There are three common assessments for Ed361:

1) Lesson Plan:
    a) The lesson plan includes a set of student profiles (instructor provided) and key elements of a strong lesson plan (standards, formative/summative assessment, etc.) Lesson plan is scored on rubric based on key elements of the Danielson Framework.
    b) In this section, the lesson plan will be taught, recorded, and used as a reflection.
2) Management Plan:
    a) Students will prepare a brochure to be sent home to parents that explains the student's classroom management plan. This will include partnering with families, developing relationships, rules, procedures, transitions, disciplinary interventions, etc.
    b) Students will also use this plan to respond to specific scenarios in class.
3) Code of Ethics Case:
    a) Students will be provided a scenario to carefully examine and discuss. They will need to explain what the person did wrong, what the right consequence would be, why the rules are in place, and how the situation could be prevented.

Part III: Course Breakdown and Grading:

Course Breakdown:

- Major Projects: Major projects will be "chunked" into small bits due each Saturday. Major elements of the lesson plan, behavior management plan, and case study will be broken out in detail.
- Readings: Students should approach readings as though they will teach the readings (which they well may!) Students should be ready to answer questions about readings on a Tuesday, and ready to teach on a Thursday. Readings will be from textbooks and other freely available sources.
- Case Studies: Case studies will be due every Monday night. Case studies are hypothetical cases (though realistic) that push students to think through real-world problems. Readings may be associated with case studies.
- At-Bats: There will be 8 opportunities to teach actual lessons in this class that will be graded along a progressively more rigorous set of expectations. Students will teach three times in class, will teach an online video and a stuffed animal once, and will need to seek three additional authentic opportunities to teach outside of class. The teaching will be rated, but will be scored only on completion. To get full credit, teacher will need to provide three parts of the "at-bat" assignment: 1) Lesson plan 2) recording of teaching and 3) reflection.
- Attendance Checks and Minor Assignments: I reserve the right to add assignments to this class, but they will be minor. Attendance checks are daily in class, and you should copy/paste your notes from that day's class. You should also explain what grade you believe you deserve for participation and attendance that day.
- Consultancy project: Students will complete a short consultancy project near the end of class.

Recorded lectures:
You will be graded on your attendance, and will not be allowed to get credit outside of attending class without approval.

Everyone can access recorded lectures, however. I will attempt to record all class sessions, but you should not rely on those as recordings sometimes fail. You should get the information you need from class. In the event of technical failure, students are still responsible for the learning that takes place in sessions.

Questions and Communication
In the first week of class, you will learn about our zoom channel: please check it daily. While I'm always happy to answer questions, please do all you can to ask peers and consult class materials (e.g. syllabus) before reaching out. Questions that may apply to the whole class can be asked in the Zoom chat; personal questions should be emailed. I encourage people to ask their group first, the zoom channel second, the TA third, and BroPa fourth--to build your capacity to answer your own questions. That said, just ask! I love interacting with students, and will happily answer even if you go out of order.

Grading:
Please reference the University's grading explanation here. Letter Grades are assigned according to the following scale:

A	93-100	A-	90-93	B+	87-89	B	83-86
B-	80-82	C+	77-79	C	73-76	C-	70-73
D+	67-69	D	63-66	D-	60-62	F	0-59

Grade Breakdown:

10%	Attendance and Participation
10%	Consultancy Project
20%	At-Bats
30%	Case Studies, Readings
30%	Major Projects

Grading Procedure and Philosophy:
A thought on emotional health and grades: I hope all of you are aiming for an A. But I hope you realize that the real goal isn't the A, it's the learning--it's the success that you'll have in your classroom someday because of what you learned, the students' lives who will be changed, and the relationships you'll build with teachers, parents, students, and communities--and most importantly, the Lord. This is a very long-term game. You will see your success measured not in months, or even years, but decades and generations.

Additionally, I suspect that many of you lean toward perfectionism: teaching will help with that. You will learn, quickly, the art of "good enough." You should never feel the need to spend 3 hours on a 1 hour assignment. Be wise. Learn how to manage your own time carefully. Learn that excellence is better than perfectionism (including in grades) and know the difference between integrity and scrupulosity. Perfectionism is an enemy. You're here to grow and thrive.

Peer Grading: You will do a lot of peer grading and peer feedback. You are about to be teachers, so this is good training. I expect you to grade with kindness, honesty, and care. While you will give suggested grades, I am ultimately responsible for grades in this course.

Grade Appeals: If you would like to appeal a grade, please email me. Note that I will regrade any assignment once--but I regrade the full assignment, not just the piece that a student may feel was unfair.

Extra Credit: Make-up work opportunities and extra credit are approved at my discretion; focus on submitting high quality work first. Impressive projects, high quality work, or powerful insights can also earn some extra credit points.

Part IV: Course Expectations and Explanations:

Required Course Materials:

You will need a working laptop, an internet connection, and a google email (you have one through BYUI). Your computer should work. (I'm not kidding. It's your job to make sure it does.) You should join Zoom via computer, not cell phone. You will need a quality pair of headphones with a mic (apple or comparable are fine). Quality needn't be expensive!

Please also ensure that you have a copy of these books.

- Marzano, Robert J. The New Art and Science of Teaching. , 2017. Print.
- Himmele, Pérsida, and William Himmele. Total Participation Techniques to Engage Students. 2017. Print.

There is an online version that is free to BYU-I students:

TPT: https://ebookcentral.proquest.com/lib/byui/detail.action?docID=4935611&query=total+participation#

Note too that I will add more readings in Canvas, but they will be free to access.

Note on Remote Learning Etiquette:

The Honor Code, common sense, professionalism, and basic thoughtfulness should be where you start with questions. If you're living the spirit of the law, most of the below is already obvious. If you have questions about etiquette, asking early is professional and appreciated. Teacher-candidates should consider what they would expect of their students in a classroom, and should do more than the bare minimums of compliance. Here are some tips to be helpful, though:

- Please dress professionally for Zoom sessions in the same way as you would for class.
- If you can't turn on your camera, I won't count you as present. I also might kick you out. Mostly because it's hilarious to kick people out randomly, but also because Turn Your Camera On!
- Students should not leave a class session in-progress. Leaving a class may impact attendance.
- By default, please mute yourself unless you are contributing to class discussion.
- Use the hand raise feature and comment thread to indicate you have a comment or question.
- You can always discuss in the comments. It's encouraged!
- Please wear headphones or earbuds for audio, as it improves the clarity of sound for listeners--even if in person.
- You should be in a location that is conducive to learning, and not distracting for others. Refrain from walking, driving, or otherwise moving during Zoom classes. If you believe there is an exception, it is your responsibility to reach out before that class occurs. I typically am very willing to allow exceptions if I know them early.
- Please refrain from eating, grooming, exercising, skinning of wild beasts, etc. while tuning in to the live class. If you wouldn't do it in class, please don't do it in zoom. If you normally skin beasts in class… we should talk.
- Some counsel: set a routine for yourself that will allow you to focus during class. Consider building a focus plan. I will not play "gotcha" with questions, but I expect you to pay attention.
- Find a quiet, clean space from which to tune in. It is your job to let others know that you are in class. I have kids--I get it (and you'll probably see them, no matter how hard I try!) I expect your best, and will give mine.
- You should be on a computer, not a phone. Trust me, there's a big difference.
- For presentations, please be engaging. It's kind to peers, but it's also great preparation for your classroom.
- In general, students should have back-up plans for technology difficulties as a matter of scholastic preparedness and also as a professional-in-training.

Course Policies and Procedures:

Statement on dress code, masks, and honor code:
I'm only a little evil, but I am a former middle school teacher, so I would be wise. Be kind to yourself, and keep the rules without being asked. Be kind to me by not making me say something. Wear masks. Put them over your nose. Keep the honor code. If you have an issue with anything, bring it up before you break it.

But, like, really, I am kinda evil. :>)

Dress Code:

- For regular classes attendance: BYUI-approved dress and grooming standards. Masks required.
- For Presentations: Show effort in your appearance to present and demonstrate professionalism. Masks required.

Late Work
You can always submit work early--and are encouraged to. Major projects that are submitted on time or early may be submitted and resubmitted as many times as necessary to get to the grade you desire.[5] You will also get feedback on each submission to help you improve the quality of your work: the goal is to learn from the process of submission, feedback, improvement, and resubmission. Late submissions on certain projects will not be penalized but you only get one shot to submit. You will get somewhat less feedback if you submit late, and you will be graded by me. I will not intentionally grade you harshly, but I do tend to grade more harshly than peers and TAs.

Some assignments cannot be submitted late by their nature (like group presentations). Submitting them late without prior approval will result in an automatic zero grade. Minor assignments are generally not accepted late. Again, this is to keep you on track.

Please be mature and professional about extenuating circumstances. (e.g. family vacations are not emergencies, and even emergencies are your responsibility to talk with me about.) You will find me to be very understanding, if you are very responsible.

Sensitive Topics
The world is in tremendous turmoil. The devil is stirring men's hearts up unto anger, and it's hard to even have conversations on some topics. Elder Paul V. Johnson has asked faculty to have both "moral courage" and "intellectual courage." I do not believe that it is in your best interest for me to avoid difficult conversations. To the contrary, learning how to wrestle with difficult topics is one of the most important things you can take from your BYU-Idaho education. As such, I will attempt to do so with openness, sensitivity, and honesty. If there are questions that are important to you, don't hesitate to ask me privately--and if appropriate, I may raise such issues in class, as well. I should also be clear that everything these days is politicized, and everyone is angry. The solution is not to disagree less, but to disagree better. I do not expect you to agree with everything I say--I only expect respect and civility. In that context, I'm happy to discuss things that are pressing to you. Additionally, my door is always open on more personal topics, too. If you struggle with mental health, if life happens, if you just need candy, come by to chat about anything, anytime. Really.

Course Calendar
The Course Calendar outlines all assignments, topics, and modules of the class. The instructor reserves the right to make changes in the schedule and syllabus. Students will be informed of changes in a timely manner. This calendar may be found in the i-Learn course materials, and is attached here as well. This is a penguin.

[5] Mastery Based Learning (most effectively promulgated by the brilliant--and brilliantly named--Benjamin Bloom) is a different education paradigm where we flip time and mastery. Rather than hold time constant, and let mastery fluctuate, MBL says that you can take all the time you need on a project, but you must get an excellent score on it. This means that students can work ahead, and go slower if needed. It's really good stuff, and I highly recommend you check it out. See here for more details. (The video is meh, but the documents are pretty good.)

Syllabus Changes
This syllabus is a guide and every attempt is made to provide an accurate overview of the course. However, circumstances and events may make it necessary for the instructor to modify the syllabus during the semester and may depend, in part, on the progress, needs, and experiences of the students. Changes to the syllabus will be made with advance notice.

Part V: Standard Disclosures

Academic Honesty
"When you are honest in every way, you are able to enjoy peace of mind and maintain self-respect. You build strength of character, which allows you to be of service to God and others. You are trustworthy in the eyes of God and those around you. If you are dishonest in your words or actions, you hurt yourself and often hurt others as well. If you lie, steal, cheat, or neglect to give the full amount of work for your pay, you lose your self-respect. You lose the guidance of the Holy Ghost" ("Honesty," True to the Faith (2004), 84)

Academic Honesty means students do their own work. This also means their instructors will evaluate that work. Students should not be dishonest—this includes all types of work in their courses. The complete Academic Honesty Policy can be found at http://www.byui.edu/student-honor-office/ces-honor-code/academic-honesty.

All students attending BYU-Idaho have agreed in writing to adhere to the Honor Code. Cheating, which includes plagiarism, will not be tolerated. This includes using materials you did not create and claiming them as your own. Using ideas and resources shared in the teaching community is supported, however you must give attribution and add your own ideas, experience, etc. to found resources. Please check with the instructor before using resources such as Teachers Pay Teachers and Influencer produced materials. Anyone caught cheating will receive a zero on the assignment or exam, will be reported to the Student Honor Office, and may be expelled from the course.

Academic Support
Go to http://www.byui.edu/AcademicSupport , or come to the McKay Library 272 for information about how the writing, reading, math, and study skills centers can help you increase your success in all of your classes. To schedule a tutor for a specific class, log on to the Academic Support website, click on Tutor Request under Student Services and follow the instructions. Penguin. I'm evil, lol. Who puts a penguin in the standard disclosures? That's like supervillain level evil.

Academic Grievances
Students are encouraged to contact their instructors regarding course-related concerns. If concerns cannot be resolved in this way, students may contact the BYU-Idaho Support Center to formally register a concern or grievance. The Student Grievance Policy can be found here.

Disability Services
BYU-Idaho does not discriminate against persons with disabilities in providing its educational and administrative services and programs and follows applicable federal and state law. This policy extends to the University's electronic and information technologies (EIT).

Students with qualifying disabilities should contact the Disability Services Office at disabilityservices@byui.edu or 208.496.9210. Additional information about Disability Services resources can be found at http://www.byui.edu/disabilities

I am very easy to work with on this. Please know, however, that the best thing I can do for any student is give them resources, empower them, and hold them to a high bar. Talk with me early if I can help in any way. PENGUIN.

Preventing Sexual Misconduct
BYU-Idaho prohibits sex discrimination by its employees and students in all of its education programs or activities. This includes all forms of sexual harassment, such as sexual assault, dating violence, domestic violence, stalking, conditioning a grade or job on participation in sexual conduct, and other forms of unwelcome sexual conduct.

As an instructor, one of my responsibilities is to help create a safe learning environment for my students and for the campus as a whole. University policy requires deans and department chairs, and encourages all faculty, to report every incident of sexual harassment that comes to their attention. If you encounter or experience sexual harassment, please contact the Title IX Coordinator at titleix@byui.edu or 208-496-9209. Additional information about sex discrimination, sexual harassment, and available resources can be found at www.byui.edu/titleix.
