I really enjoyed taking this course with BroPa. He is very relatable and compassionate, especially when it comes to people who want to be the best teachers. He sets realistic expectations, and allows his students to be honest and open with experiences in the classroom. To be honest, the homework for this class did overwhelmed me often, but also helped me to take deep breaths and prioritize my time better. The readings were great and very beneficial, and class time was well spent discussing important topics that I often referred back to and carried into my teaching the rest of the week.

I liked the course set up because there wasn't too much homework so that I was able to practice teaching more often. Something that could be useful is going over the parts of the lesson plan that could be confusing, such as the SEL section, at the beginning of the semester.
I liked the oral exams even if they were a bit stressful. I liked the memes in class,
Best teacher ever.
