Candidate: Ben Pacini Email: Pacinib@byui.edu Phone:

Person Performing Audit: Amy Clark Date: Nov. 6, 2020

MATERIAL AUDIT Fall 2020

MATERIAL AUDIT: The purpose of the material audit is to allow more seasoned faculty members an opportunity to provide coaching and feedback to new faculty members about such things as syllabus design, I-Learn course layout, creations of test questions or other materials that have been created for a particular course. They can also be helpful in reviewing formal written lesson plans or discussing pedagogical design and implementation. Remember that this is an audit and doesn't have to be exhaustive. Pull a few examples of syllabi or questions or lesson plans as examples and use those for a discussion or for feedback.

Materials reviewed and audited:
Syllabus for ED 211 Technology for the 21st Century
Syllabus for ED449 Senior Practicum
.

ED211

WOW! This is an extremely thorough and comprehensive syllabus. There are several items I'd like to incorporate in my own syllabi. Thank you!

1. Great introduction story! This sets the tone that this class will be applicable and meaningful.

2. While I enjoy your humor, others might take offense. Could you say the same thing with just a little less sarcasm?

*"ED211 was developed by the department because they felt prompted (lol, right, sure) that there was a need to increase the amount of technological fluency among future teachers at BYU-I. (wide eyes dot gif) This is a crash course on classroom technology, but let's be honest, we're going to talk about a lot more technology than just that. In other words, I'm supposed to say something about how important this class is--but if you don't see it as compelling already (while you're sitting in your zoom room reading this online document) um, you have problems that I'm not sure I can fix."*

3. Third paragraph give an excellent overview of the course purpose and outcomes.

4. Invitation for students to contact you is friendly and welcoming all while admitting your imperfections.

5. Including the university's mission statement, ILOs and ISTE Standards and incorporating them directly to class is a power connection.

6. Department outcomes, course outcomes and KUDOs very cleary stated and include a connection to becoming like Christ.

Intentionally craft disciples of Jesus Christ. How does EdTech relate to the gospel of Jesus Christ?

7. I appreciated your extremely thorough Note on Remote Learning Etiquette, course policies and expectations, dress code, and late work. Do you mind if I use some of your ideas for my classes?

8. Providing information on mental health, potential for pivot to fully remote classes and survival guide are timely and show great sensitivity to challenges students face.

9. Required BYUI policy information is included in the syllabus.

I really hope students take the time to read everything in this syllabus. A great deal of student support is offered which shows how much you care about helping each student succeed. Your fun personality shines through and lets students know that you are personable and real. Thank you for providing such detailed information to your students.

ED449
Syllabus follows the same format as ED211 and contains the same level of professionalism and detail to support student success. Nicely done!