Instructor: Pacini, Benjamin
Course Name: ED 200 (01)
Course Title: Teaching as a Profession

Surveyed (i.e. enrolled): 28
Completed an evaluation: 26
Completion rate: 93%

Comments
N/A
It was a really good class. I really enjoyed the out of class experiences.
Overall I really did enjoy the class! I definitely learned a lot about teaching and what it means to be a teacher by what was taught as well as Bro Pa's example! There were some things I wish were different, especially with the work he had us do. Some of them felt unnecessary and repetitive with other assignments. Also, there weren't clear expectations and it never felt like we had time in class to talk about the assignments for the week so I felt a little on my own with understanding what was wanted- which led to me getting 0s and being told that what I submitted wasn't what they were looking for and didn't really tell me what it was or how to change what I did so it met the expectations.
It was for my major but then I changed it. So, this class is no longer needed for my major.
N/A
I LOVE BROPA
Bropa gave genuine concern towards me and my well-being I would 100% take this course again!
Very unorganized.
The only think I would want to change about this class is slightly less essays. I found myself just adding words and fluff to meet a page requirement.
This class was great, but I wish the teaches would have been fairer. I also think the volunteer hours were a lot, mainly because of how many credits I'm taking and the sacrifices I had to make to get the hours.
The biggest critique I have for this course is PLEASE have Canvas functioning and at least mostly organized so that assignments have their due dates and you don't have to search for them in modules and have the chance to get a zero because it wasn't on the dashboard. This would be helpful if at least that was all done and submission buttons are attached by the beginning of each week.
He is an amazing teacher. He just needs to get more organized with his canvas and assignments.
I really enjoyed this class! We had some valuable discussions about teaching and about life in general that were meaningful to me. I didn't love having an essay due almost every Saturday and I would change that if I could. I liked that our assigment that made us get into schools and start having those experiences early. It helped me make some important decisions.
a certificate
N/A